Wind, Rainstorm Cause Damage

Mud slides and freak accidents caused by the weather made the headlines throughout the state and also in Daly City this past week as old man "elements" stole the show.

The steady rain caused a $6,000 patio to slide down an embankment as the back yard gave way at the Tom Stanghellini residence, 210 San Fernando way in St. Francis Heights.

Stanghellini, owner of Lucca Market, 7370 Mission, placed a plastic cover over the broken earth to keep the rain off. He was helped by firemen and neighbors.

The concrete patio, which started to slip Monday, finally gave way as earth slipped out from under it, Stanghellini said. He said final repairs would cost $20,000.

Whoops!

John Moran nonchalantly phoned Daly City police last week and informed them his roof at 284 St. Francis boulevard had blown off. Firemen covered an 8 by 10 foot hole with canvas to keep Moran dry until repairs could be made.

Four sets of traffic signals were out in Daly City for a while on Feb. 9, and portions of Westlake and Crocker tract were without lights for a time during the night.

A heavy wind and rainstorm Feb. 8 and 9 caused 20 trees to blow down in Pacifica, one smashing a carport and home at 955 Reina Del Mar.

In Daly City, the wind blew countless numbers of garbage cans over, bringing a flood of complaints to the Department of Public Works.

South San Francisco encountered a drainage problem. Drains were stopped along Colma Creek due to high water conditions.

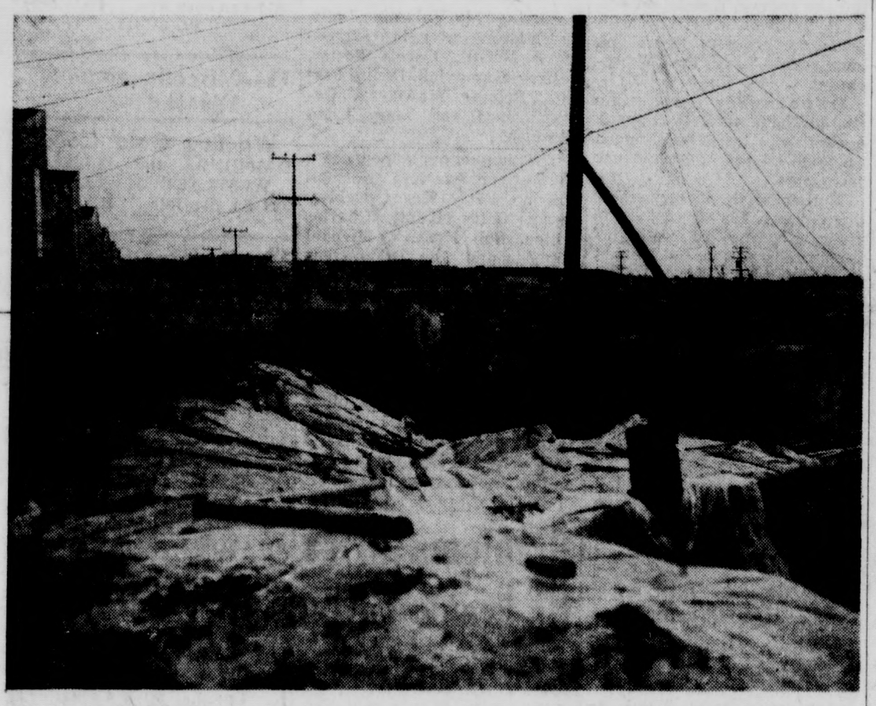
City Engineer William Chapman said the entire street department crew was in action cleaning up the strewn garbage.

The steel structure holding up the Daly City Christmas tree, high on a hill above City Hall, also blew down, causing an estimated $500 to $600 damage.

Pacifica department of public works reported a tree fell down and smashed a car port and home at the A. D. Brunette residence, 955 Reina Del Mar.

City employes had to cut the tree down before Brunette could drive his car out of the garage and go to work, the department said.

In Daly City, mud from the 12 acres of Callan property on Eastmoor drive, flowed onto Eastmoor and plugged sewers.



A MUDDY MESS occurred during rainstorm last week in St. Francis Heights at the Tom Stanghellini residence, 210 San Fernando way, when $6,000 patio gave way and slipped down embankment due to crumbling earth. Final repairs will cost $20,000, Stanghellini said.

Brotherhood Week Rally Set For War Memorial

The third annual Brotherhood Rally, Daly City's celebration of National Brotherhood Week, will take place in the War Memorial Building on Sunday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p. m.

Originally started by the National Council of Christians and Jews, National Brotherhood Week is a period set aside annually for the promotion of better understanding between people of different faiths.

The week, to be climaxed by the big rally, will also feature a special luncheon on Friday, Feb. 23, at the Westlake Baptist Church. In previous years luncheons have been held at Temple B'nai Israel and the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church.

The program for the rally on Feb. 25 will include presentation of the flag by Boy Scouts, words by members of the Daly City Ministerial Association, a soloist from Temple Judea, a film and refreshments.

Rabbi Solomon Shore is chairman of the event, assisted by the Revs. Paul Malte, Vernon Thomas and Herbert Tweedie. Lynn Hodges is ministerial president. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

School Board Action

The Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District took the following action at its regular meeting, Tuesday, February 15:

Approved District Attorney Keith Sorenson's recommendation that $11,764.27 in damages be sought in pursuance of the JUHSD versus Callan, et al, litigation.

Discussed proposed school calendar for 1962-63 regular session. School tentatively set to open on Tuesday, Sept. 11 (Monday is Admission Day), and close on Friday, June 14—177 school days.

Accepted the Administration's proposal that bids be sought on tree and shrub landscaping at Terra Nova and Oceana High Schools.

Accepted and read a letter from Paul W. Reiter, associate architect for Oceana, informing the board that the academic complex at Oceana was complete, and all remaining work was to be on the athletic facilities.

Recommended at Trustee Fontana's urging that attention be given to the lack of street lighting on the "country lane" approaches to Terra Nova.

Read a report from architect Mario Ciampi estimating a total of 38 months necessary to complete a second increment at Oceana. This increment would increase enrollment from 1,500 to 2,000 students.

Thursday Deadline On Election Filing

Seven persons were on the list of candidates for the April 10 municipal elections in Daly City as the noon Thursday deadline approaches for filing for candidacy. Registration deadline is also on Thursday.

Tavern owner George Kirchhubel, 6294 Mission street, Daly City, was the seventh citizen to add his name to the list of those circulating nomination papers. Five Daly City candidates have actually filed, according to the city clerk's office. These are: Incumbents Mayor Robert St. Clair, councilman Edward Dennis, councilman Micheal DeBernardi, Sheldon M. Prezant, 789 Higate drive and Harry B. Farber, 105 Camelia drive. Alphonso Morales, 849 Hanover street, Daly City, has taken out nomination papers, but not officially filed.

The list of declared city council candidates in Pacifica was increased to 14 this week as

Liebes Opening Is Approaching

The new H. Liebes store will open at 12:30 on February 21 in the Westlake Shopping enter.

Two five-year-old girls, Leslie Michel and Joanne Liebes, will untie the H. Liebes welcome mat in front of 75 Westlake Court.

An opening ceremony will depict the contrast between H. Liebes turn of the century fashions and 1962 styles.

"Visitors will enter the most beautiful store in northern California," said Sidney Liebes, president of the firm.

Liebes has closely supervised the construction and decor since the idea of the Westlake store was the first put on paper.

"The bright and colorful interior is a novel departure in store decoration," Liebes said. "Each department is identified by its own color, strikingly dif-

Chief Kennedy Leads Daly City Heart Fund

The Heart-Days-for-Business in Daly City are now under way (started Monday, February 12), with captains under the leadership of Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy, city chairman, calling on business and industry for the Heart Fund.

"Not until you become an active volunteer, digging into the facts about heart disease, do you realize what serious business and industry problems are caused by heart disease, to say nothing of the situations at home," said Chief Kennedy. "I just learned that 50 per cent of the males in the age bracket 45-64 are victims of heart and blood vessel disease. From a pure business standpoint, just think what this death rate can mean in your

DALY CITY HEART DAYS FOR BUSINESS chairman appointed. Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy has been appointed Heart-Days-for-Business chairman in Daly City by F. Jose de Larios, South San Francisco, north county co-chairman for this special part of the Heart Fund campaign, which starts Feb. 12. "Industria and business productivity has an important relationship to healthy executives and employees," said Chief Kennedy. "With heart disease a real business problem almost always showing up on the books, companies should make an investment in the Heart Fund. It's good business sense."

Mud Slide Problem Aired Before City

Seven homes in St. Francis Heights are now in jeopardy of being damaged by a mud slide.

Tom Stanghellini, 120 San Fernando way, brought this problem before the Daly City council Tuesday night, Feb. 13, in an attempt to have the city work out a solution.

Stanghellini's patio and the retaining wall that supported this structure behind his home, crumbled last week in heavy rains as ground supports turned into sliding mud.

He said McKeon corporation, which built the patio, had refused to talk to him about his situation.

The city council directed City Manager Ed Frank to contact McKeon for a meeting with Stanghellini to discuss the problem.

"Homes in back of my house and adjacent to me and four homes below me are threatened by the slide," Stanghellini said.

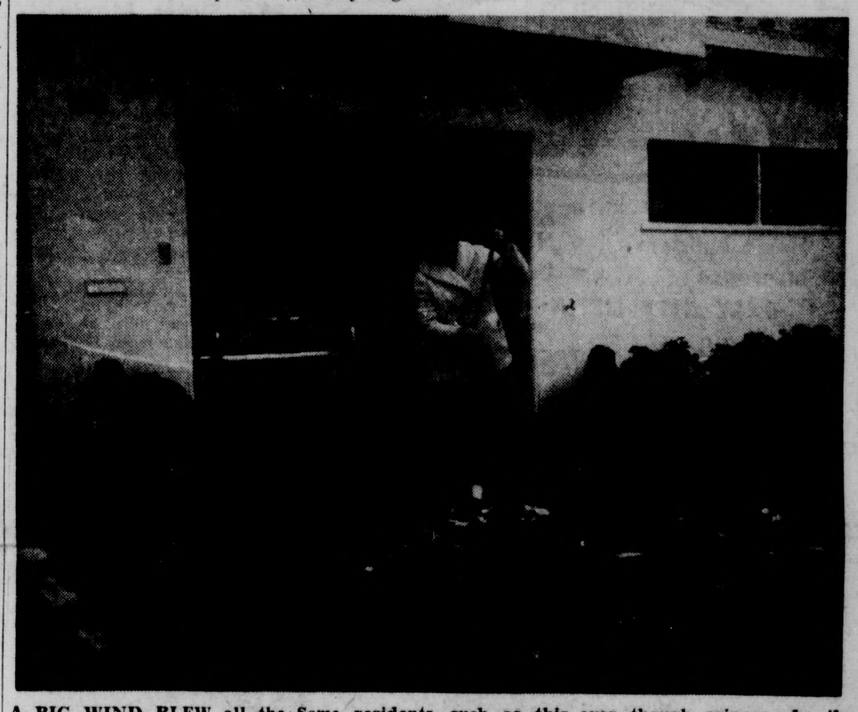
"It's a threat to property and emergency measures are needed," he added.

City Engineer William Chapman said nothing could be done to help the situation until the rain stops, other than covering the slide area.

"Tying down that slope is like trying to stop a locomotive," he said.

Stanghellini said the polyethelyne plastic placed on the slide area did not hold and he was forced to rent four tarpaulins to hold down the area.

City attorney Paul Hupf added he considered the city had no legal responsibilities in the matter.



A BIG WIND BLEW all the garbage cans over in some sections of Daly City on Feb. 9. Some residents, such as this Palisades housewife, decided they would clean up the mess, even though rain made the work miserable.

Navy Treats Chamber To Radar Ship Tour

Members of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce were treated to a special meeting last Thursday when at the Navy's invitation they visited the radar ship USS Picket, currently tied up for repairs at Treasure Island.

In place of the usual Thursday luncheon, 15 members and guests of the Chamber met at TI's pier 16 for a three hour guided tour and luncheon aboard this converted liberty ship.

A liberty ship it may once have been, but today after a complete reconversion, it is a veritable arsenal of electronic detection equipment — a network of scopes, screens and antennas.

Captain of the ship Lt. Comdr. Robert Bodamer, 267 Westbrook avenue, Daly City extended the invitation to the Chamber through President Frank Curry, and Curry in turn opened the visit to all.

The Picket is one of five ships steaming up and down the coast between Mexico and Alaska, scanning the skies and the sea for any craft heading for the continent. She is a link in the North American Air the same function as distant early warning the detection system that rings the top of the world.

The ship steams up and down the coast in one of five stations, staying at sea 30 days at a time, two thirds of the year. Because her mission is to go someplace without really getting anyplace, the ship is equipped somewhat more comfortably than sister ships which go from port to port.

In addition to the standard lounge, mess, and movie rooms, the Picket has a basketball court, practice golf area and boxing ring.

Though the basketball touch admittedly becomes a little rough when the seas do, the ship is steadied by 10,000 gallons of water ballast carried in the hull. This is the area where the cargo rode when the ship was performing her more plaintiff duties. The space lay empty after reconversion, and the lack of weight made for a pretty bumpy ride. So in went the water,and back up went the

South County Campus Land Purchase OK'd

Trustees of the San Mateo Junior College district will proceed with the acquisition of the Oddstad property for the proposed south county campus. Meeting Feb. 1, they voted unanimously for the purchase of the 130.9 acre site, which consists of 20 acres in Redwood City and the balance in Woodside.

With regard to another district property, the board approved a recommendation by Superintendent Julio L. Bortolazzo to accept an offer by the Mills Memorial Hospital of $145,000 for the Second avenue parcel, once the site of the old gymnasium of the college. The purchase offer for the property by Miss Hospital for additional parking and improved access is to be confirmed in writing and is subject to procedures required by law.

In another action, the trustees approved a petition to the San Mateo City Council requesting annexation to the city of approximately 107 acres of the College Heights campus, located within the unincorporated territory of the county. The remaining portion of the 153 acre campus lies within the city limits of Hillsborough.

South American Travelers To Talk To SSF Woman's Club

The teachers are Messrs. Paris Simmons, Carl Hunter, Robert Daugherty and Victor Santa Maria. The Woman's Club will donate the evening's proceeds to the building fund of the Boys Club of South San Francisco.

The program will include talks from Messrs. Hunter and Simmons concerning experiences along the way, education and people. There will be recordings of native music, displays, color slides and a film depicting bullfighting, a dog act and other exciting sights. Simmons will give a special reading of a chapter of his forthcoming book, "We Slept in the Damndest Places.'

Refreshments will be served following the program.

Rain, rain, don't go away

WE'RE STORING IT FOR A SUMMER'S DAY! Wet, wonderful water! Each day, farms, families and factories use it up in million-gallon gulps. PG&E helps satisfy this thirst by storing rain and snow water in high mountain reservoirs. Ordinarily this water would flow to the sea unused . . . sometimes with destructive floods. Instead, we release much of the stored water to generate electricity at just the time when California is thirstiest—in summer. In this way, PG&E's "rainy-day savings" pay off for water users downstream while helping keep your PG&E service a bargain.

COLMA K-6 NEWS BRIEFS

As part of their home unit in social studies, Mrs. Klaisner's first grade class at Colma K-6 school visited Parkmerced.

Since, with very few exceptions, all of the children in the class live in single family homes, they were interested in comparing their homes with those of the boys and girls who live in an apartment community.

Mr. Fletcher of the administrative staff of Parkmerced took the children on a tour of the maintenance shops where they saw materials for all types of home repairs; an electrical shop; the key shop where thousands of keys are made; the shop where the venetian blinds and shades are made; and, the stove room, where the stoves are cleaned.

They saw the trees and shrubs being sprayed by the gardener. Then they went on to the recreation area where the children in the apartment community play under supervision.

The last stop, and the most exciting was a tour of one of the towers. Here Mr. Fletcher showed them the laundry room, boiler room, and a model apartment. The elevator ride to the roof thirteen stories up was the high point of the trip.

Mrs. Moreschini and Mrs. Casalnuovo, the First Grade Room Mothers, assisted Mrs. Klaisner on the study trip.

Linda Mar PTA Sets 'Album Night' Skit

In looking through the family album there is a great deal of pride in the ancestry. However, like in the best of families, an occasional skeleton is dug up from the closet.

This adds to the excitement and fun of the Gaslight Memoirs skit, titled "Grandma's Album," to be given at the Founders' Day program at Linda Mar school on Wednesday, Feb. 21, at 8 p. m.

The dialogue was written by Mrs. Margo Houg and the pianist to lead us through the scenes will be Miss Paula Wolf.

Members of the PTA will participate in the portrayal of characters.

The narrators are Marilyn Willard and Maureen Compton with a choral group of Miss Streeper's sixth grade students performing.

The honorary life membership award will be presented by Mrs. Richard McMahon.

Garden Village Pupils Visit School District

Second grade classes at Garden Village, under the direction of Mrs. Rizzo and Miss Allen, toured the Jefferson Elementary School District. The social studies unit being studied includes the educational facilities available in Daly City.

The students were conducted through the new Education Center by Dr. Vinton Stratton, assistant superintendent, and found the discussion informative. They were also conducted through Westmoor High School and were amazed at the differences in curriculum and program. Immediately following, they had lunch and visited Vista Mar, particularly noting the architectural construction as compared to the more othodox school building. Room mothers assisting on the trip included Mrs. Katapodis, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Nickas and Mrs. Eckman.

Students will follow through on their trip with map study, art illustrations and oral reports on places visited.

On Feb. 2, the primary classes were shown "Bear Country" as the citizenship movie of the month. The PTA sponsors these as an incentive toward good citizenship.

The kindergarten classes will participate in the Feb. 20 PTA Founders Day program to commence at 7:30 p. m.

Second quarter honor students include Tina Caggiano and Jeanie Olsen.

School News

from

Abraham Lincoln Elementary School

"What is the weather forecast for today?" asked the children. "Let's find out," answered the teacher, Mrs. Katherine Gerdes. So Station SWEN, Channel 16, invented, built and conducted by the fourth-fifth grade of Abraham Lincoln, came into being to report the weather and news each morning in room 16.

Miss Merriweather (Teresa Pagani) compiles reports from all available sources, and relates weather conditions to the class. This project has been enthusiastically entered into by all members of the staff.

Weather stations have been built by Toby Muskin and David Modisette, by Steve Stewart and Joey Tringali, and by Fred Kornakrens and Neal Crosbite. Each day Sue Shaban and Steve Stewart check the wind velocity on anometers made by Greg Arlotta and Steve Stewart. Barometers, built by David Modisette and Lewis Tompson, enable a daily check of air pressure and the humidity is measured by a hygometer constructed by Corrinne Langner. Forecasts are based on information obtained by use of vanes anddaily observations of cloud formations.

The television set in use was invented by Paul Moriscko, Fred Kornakrens, Steve Stewart, David Modisette, Paul Kelley, Linda Sackman, Margaret Putnam and Corrine Langner. Necessary painting and decoration was done by Kathy Ahern, Cathy Newton, Debbie Hayner, Julianne Klemenm, Diane Pocter, Elaine Lubbe, Wendy Baltor, Robin Simon, Marguerite Baker, Lynn Thorn, Rosanne Campagnola, Wendy Goldstein, Cheryl Kimberly, Jim Bravos, Gary Koolpe and Rickey Gurtner.

"A Rhyme, A Rhyme for a Valentine" was the timely title of ap lay presented by the first grade of Abraham Lincoln elementary school taught by Mrs. Arleen Byers. The entire class cooperated in writing the play, composing the rhymes, painting the scenery and arranging the stage set.

The play takes place in the Valentine maker's shop, where Keith Paras is introduced by the announcer, Deborah Mayer. His distress over the scarcity of suitable rhymes for current Valentines is overheard by a passing boy, Craig, played by Michael Ousledge, who tries to help the Valentine maker by inviting his friends to bring in poems.

The challenge is answered by nine children — Patricia Campbell, Richie Bott, Mary Rodrigo, Carol Mendez, Michael Newton, Jimmy Lynch, Tommy Brady, Dana Longwill and Ksenia Schwed — who bring in their original rhymes. Four village children, attracted by the reading of the poems — Jimmy Bucini, Dickie Chase, David Muskin and Joanne Levey — join the group.

Singing "My Valentine," other children enter the shop — Mark McGill, Carole Foster, Jeffrey Kappovich, Denise Bertine, Rodney McAlavey, Debray Zissis and Mary Ellen Brennan.

The shopkeeper announces a rhyme contest and Norman Infisino, Petty Kerns, Debray Zissis, Betty Knott, Charles Gillon, Bob Kossick, Michael Gibbons and Jon Dunn compete for the Gold Heart. The prize is presented to Jon Dunn and the entire cast sings "I Made a Red Heart."

The performance was given on three different occasions—on Feb. 9 for the three other first grades; on Feb. 13 for the two kindergarten classes, and on Valentine's Day for the parents of the class members.

YWCA Offers Complete New Dance Program

Dancing is the modern way to stay slim, keep fit and develop graceful body movements according to the latest YWCA program folder being mailed this week to North San Mateo County YW members. The local Y is therefore offering this season a complete program in dance—from hula to ballet—for women and girls.

Figure improvement is the goal of the YW class in the basic movements of ballet and modern dance. "Our class will require energy, dedication and work, but you will view with pride the graceful figure you have earned," says the YW brochure.

Dancing as a recreation should begin at 3 to 5 years, according to the YWCA which starts in classes of basic dance techniques.

Mothers of elementary school age children are urged to send their offspring to work off surplus energies in hula, ballet or folk dancing. This last class is also open to boys, 6 to 12.

Always popular with women is the evening YW hula class which many find the most relaxing way to exercise. Those who like to include husbands in their dancing night out are invited to enroll in ballroom dancing—either beginning or intermediate.

All these classes are held in the Westlake-Daly City area. For more information call the YWCA, PL 6-7370.

Problems Arise As Creek Turns Into A River

A situation of a normal creek turning into a river and almost taking the lives of two children was brought before the attention of the Daly City council Tuesday night.

Thomas Callan, Sr., former supervisor, said rains have caused a creek bed on his property near 89th and 90th streets to be gouged out for an estimated $5,000 damage.

He said a woman, unidentified, called him and said her two children almost drowned in the stream, "now some 30 feet wide and 10 feet deep."

Callan contends that the city has inadvertently caused drainage to be shunted off onto his property. The city attorney will investigate the matter to see what action is to be taken.

Getting Prepared For Survival

The Extended Day Division of the College of San Mateo will open a class in "Individual and Family Survival," on the evening of February 20. The class will meet from 7:30 to 10 p.m. for six weeks at the Borel School in San Mateo.

Purpose of the class is to give every family the necessary instruction that will increase their chances of survival during a natural or man-made disaster.

The course will discuss personal preparedness in the nuclear age, and will provide information on which individuals and families may assess various points of view concerning fallout and shelter programs.

If sufficient interest warrants, a second class will be scheduled, to open on March 10.

New Air Pollution Station

The following news release (in quotes) came to the attention of the writer during the early part of the week:

"San Mateo County now has a continuous air pollution monitoring station which will record the peak concentration and duration of oxidants by the potassium iodide method. Previously the sampling has been limited to one reading per day.

"The new station, which is located in the San Mateo County Department of Public Health building at 500 Arguello street, Redwood City, is one of six continuous monitoring stations which the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is installing. Stations are currently operating in Marin, Contra Costa and San Francisco Counties. The final stations are expected to be in operation in Alameda and Santa Clara Counties within two months."

It's easy enough to open more air pollution study stations, but the hard part seems to be the alleviation of air pollution. We've had lots of study on the matter, we know we have it, but so far it seems to be getting worse.

Study stations may be fine, as far as they go, yet it seems that action to stop air pollution now is needed much more than additional study stations.

Rapid Transit System

Directors of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District have ordered preparation of detailed plans and estimates for a $787,000,000 rapid transit system to serve Alameda, Contra Costa and San Francisco Counties.

They left the door open to add Marin County if current studies establish the feasibility of installing rapid transit on the Golden Gate Bridge. Total cost for a four-county system would be $1,056,000,000.

The new plans are to be ready for presentation to boards of supervisors no later than June 1, with a public vote scheduled at the November general election, according to general manager John M. Peirce.

By their action, the transit directors eliminated any further consideration of facilities in San Mateo County. It was that county's rejection of the district's previous proposal which necessitated development of new plans.

The three-county system on which detailed work was ordered provides the same facilities as previously proposed for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties—about 60 miles of routes fanning out from Oakland to Richmond, Concord and Fremont. In San Francisco, the previous route along the Mission-Southern Freeway corridor would be retained as far as Daly City, but the entire route along the Geary-Post corridor leading to the Golden Gate Bridge would be eliminated.

The four-county system would include all of the three-county facilities and would add the Geary-Post line in San Francisco, a Golden Gate Bridge connection and a route in Marin County as far north as Novato.

Both systems would include provisions to tie existing San Francisco street car lines into the rapid transit system.

Chief engineer Kenneth M. Hoover estimated that the three-county system could be built in nine years and the four-county system in 17 years.

State Sales Tax Tables Announced

A table reflecting average state sales tax payments by district residents was announced by Joseph M. Mullen, district director of Internal Revenue Service in San Francisco.

Cullen said that the table may be used as a guide by district taxpayers in claiming sales tax deductions on their Federal income tax returns for 1961.

"Taxpayers who itemize their deductions instead of taking the standard deduction on Form 1040 may find the table helpful in estimating the amount to claim for sales taxes on their returns," he said.

Cullen stated that the law requires taxpayers to substantiate any deduction claimed on their returns and if requested, they must be prepared to do so. Ordinarily, however, they will not be asked to produce records to support the sales tax deduction claimed unless it exceeds the amount shown in the table.

Adjusted Gross Income	*Sales Tax Payment	Adjusted Gross Income	*Sales Tax Payment
Under $1,000	$ 23	$ 7,500 under $8,000	$101
$1,000 under $1,500	23	$ 8,000 under $8,500	107
$1,500 under $2,000	28	$ 8,500 under $9,000	111
$2,000 under $2,500	33	$ 9,000 under $9,500	117
$2,500 under $3,000	39	$ 9,500 under $10,000	123

$4,500 under $5,000	65	$13,000 under $14,000	156
$5,000 under $5,500	71	$14,000 under $15,000	164
$5,500 under $6,000	77	$15,000 under $16,000	172
$6,000 under $6,500	83	$16,000 under $17,000	179
$6,500 under $7,000	89	$17,000 under $18,000	184
$7,000 under $7,500	95	$18,000 under $19,000	189
		$19,000 under $20,000	195

*Based upon the California general sales tax rate of 3 per cent plus a 1 per cent city or county sales tax. Taxpayers not paying any city or county sales taxes should reduce the figure in the table by 25 per cent. Taxes paid on automobiles are not included in the figures above and should be computed separately.

Only 9,078 voters cast their ballots out of a total district-wide registration of 35,000 in the Jefferson Union High School District tax election. But the majority was sufficient to have the high school tax increased from $1.35 to $2.

The unexpectedly heavy rains during the past several days probably gave new hope to farmers and ranchers from the southern city limits of Pacifica and Santa Cruz who are alarmed over a dwindling water supply.

The farmers, meeting last week at an assembly water sub-committee session at Mirimar Hotel, said most irrigation or ranches depends on water from creeks, and during the last four years rainfall had been inadequate to keep their water flowing.

Half Moon Bay is planning ahead for future high school enrollments. Plans are being discussed for development of the new high school into a plant seven times larger than is being built. Designed for 353 youngsters, the second state construction would call for gradual additions to house increases in enrollment up to about 1,200 students.

Superintendent Lewis Foster said district architects expect that there might be 2,500 students by 1972.

Doesn't Want View Ruined

Dear Editor:

We have lived in Westlake for the past two years and one of the things that have caused us great annoyance are the unsightly telephone poles and a mase of both telephone and electric wires strung all over in every direction which mars our marvelous view.

It seems a shame that something cannot be done about it. In most eastern cities unsightly telephone and electric wires are not permitted. They must be installed underground.

The electric wires especially in case of a bombing would be most dangerous, as broken live wires could cause many fires.

It would be interesting to know how other people feel about this matter.

Sincerely yours,
Albert Victor Morris

Takes Issue With PTA On Tax Increase

Editor, Westlake Times

Dear Sir:

Since the Citizens Committee and Parent Teacher Association are responsible for the tax increase I suggest they pay it. My Real Estate Taxes were increased last year and now this. A 25 to 30% vote turn out is not the majority of the voters in the area.

I have sent my children thru school. This includes University. We derive no benefit from the public schools and my salary earned as a medical worker in San Francisco County has not increased to meet this.

As an ex high school teacher from Kansas City I will state that the faculty where I taught for eight years found the Parent Teacher Group to be a lot of old busy bodies, who hampered our teaching program and school progress. In other words they are a damn nuisance to the schools.

These old busy bodies would do well to supervise their own children and keep them off dangerous streets and crossings. They might teach them safety rules for their own protection. They might acquaint them with Pedestrian laws concerning their own conduct to busy intersections. Children who cannot be taught these safety rules should be taught them somewhere.

Each evening I cross thru the crossing at 87th Street near the school and am always amazed at the youngsters who feel this crossing is a public or private playground. While I come from the Westlake vicinity down Maddux Drive many more cars are on their way down the hill from Junipero Serra Blvd. Visability is poor at this time of the day and it is dangerous. Odd at this time the AAA warn pedestrians "be careful."

So far as crossing guards are concerned, that's a good way to save school money. The little safety Patrol Boys do a better job at school crossing than these sloppy crossing guards, who either sit in the car they bring or visit with passersby. The children get across as best they can. The real dilly at 87th is the sloppy woman, in pants, mostly dark, white socks, long coat, uncombed hair under a dirty faded scarf and reeking of garlic. Here she is dragging a big red stop sign upside down. Just standing in the middle of the street doing exactly nothing. Maybe I should not mind this salary, but as a tax payer I do.

FIRE FACTS

This article is written by Daly City Firemen and is published in this newspaper with the purpose of keeping the public informed about their Fire Department, its duties and associated activities.

During the past five years a good many home owners have answered their door bell, and much to their surprise, have found two firemen standing on their welcome mat. One of the firemen, more than likely, mumbled something about local fire department, fire prevention, home inspection. If you allowed them access to your home they probably checked your fireplace for cracks, your stove, and your basement for faulty electrical wiring, oily rags, stacks of newspaper, storage of flammable fluids in metal containers, and any other hazards that could cause fires. After their inspection they handed you a slip of paper and a brochure or two. Not at all painful, was it?

Yes, like most of the people who ring your door bell, we were selling something. We're a far cry from being salesmen, but we do know that fire prevention is something every home owner should have plenty of. It's one item that doesn't cost a cent, but can be mighty expensive if not incorporated in the regular habits of the home.

It has been said that house fires could be reduced by 50% if all homes and apartments were inspected at least once a year. Unfortunately, your fire department ranks are thin, and with our other equally important duties to perform, it is not possible for us to inspect all the homes in Daly City every year.

You, as the homeowner, must help us to help you. We all have enough common sense to know what's right and wrong, which practices are safe and which are not. We could fill up this newspaper with the do's and don'ts of good fire prevention practices; however, for the sake of repeating ourselves, we'll just say, "Use common sense!"

We might mention too, that when a fireman does come to inspect your home it is not mandatory to allow him in. And if he does find discrepencies, again, it isn't mandatory that you eliminate these discrepancies. But, remember, we are there to help you, and we as professionals in our field know what can and does cause fires. If we do discover something improper please try to correct it, because we sure would dislike coming back again; but this time with red lights, siren and charged water lines.

The Fire Prevention Bureau will be with us as long as there are fire departments, and its primary duty is to keep the fire fighters from fighting fires, a rather unique arrangement. So, for those of you who have any questions or problems regrading Fire Prevention please do not hesitate to call us; we'll be more than happy to assist you. Remember, "Call the firemen before the fire."

Your Fire Department responded to the following calls from January 28 to February 3:

Burning complaints, 4; Apartment fires, 3; House fires 3; Mattress fires, 1; Car fires 3; Grass fires, 3; False alarms, 6; Lockouts, 7; Cat rescue, 1; Flooded basement, 1; Rescue-inhalator calls, 4.

Thought for the week:

"Are all your electrical appliances approved by Underwriters Laboratories Inc.?"

Food For Thought

By the Daly City Ministerial Association

It was only a thin, cheap, pink Valentine. But it told her of his love. And it sparked off a high school romance which led to marriage six years later.

A little bit of love goes a long way. Love in small packages helps much. A little bit of love in a largely loveless world can give meaning to the ratrace we dare call "the good life."

God loves us in little ways. It's a little planet in a vast universe which He has created for us. It's a little 24-hour day for which He gives us more than enough daily bread.

God loves us in little ways in Jesus Christ. "The little Rabbit from Nazareth," a New Testament scholar calls Him. He is born little, in a backwoods sheeptown which scarcely dots the map. He grows up to live with little—not even a mortgaged house to call "home." He conducts a little ministry of three years — with no churches built, no campaigns, no success stories. But this Little Man gives a lot of love. He dies on a little hill, the city dump, strung up on a cross because He dares to call people back to the God they talk about but really don't want.

Rev. Paul Malte

But He rises from the dead-not this time in a little way, but with a very big victory. And His little Life—ever since—has tremendous effect.

Today He goes on giving Himself to little people in little ways. People awake to their actual littleness to take Him in through the Word spoken in churches and through a little sip of Wine and little flake of unleavened Bread. And the Little Rabbi from Nazareth goes on giving a lot of love to people who see their littleness.

It's the little bits of love that count and mount. The little word cheers a disheartened friend. The little word of praise encourages a child. The little courtesy, the little smile, the little word of thanks—a little bit of love goes a long way.

Why not try it? Just a little.

Something For Everyone

Problem Fiction. How many libraries provide homes for unorthodox ladies like Lolita or Lady Chatterley? Is the Tropic of Cancer too hot to handle? Will you find the Carpetbaggers on the open shelves or under the counter or in the stacks? These are among the questions the Library Journal asks public libraries in a survey of book selection in the area of contemporary and controversial fiction.

The surveyors hand each library a list of twenty controversial books and ask how many had been purchased and by what criteria. In checking the list we find that the Daly City Public Library has purchased sixteen. Each of these was requested before the library procured it. The demand for the book, the authors message, and his style have been determining factors in our selection of these books. Books that are crude and obscene for no purpose and receive poor reviews from outstanding critics are not added to the Daly City Public Library. Here is the list of the books:

Lawrence, D. H.: "Lady Chatterley's Lover." Eighty-two per cent of the libraries have this one.

O'Hara, John: "From the Terrace." Ninety-two per cent have this one.

Nabokov, Vladimir: "Lolita." Seventy-seven this one.

Updike, John: "Rabbit Run." Sixty-seven per cent this one.

Durrell, Lawrence: "Black Book." Sixty per cent.

Moravia, Alberto: "The Wayward Wife." Sixty per cent.

Mailer, Norman: "Dear Park." We have not purchased this one, but Fifty-three per cent of the libraries have.

Miller, Henry: "Tropic of Cancer." In the Daly City Public Library. This novel is shelved behind the desk. Fifty-one per cent of the libraries purchased it.

Vittorini, Elio: "The Dark and The Light." Fourty-seven have it.

Lytton, David: "The Goddam White Man." We haven't received this novel yet. It is the story of the down trodden blackmen of Africa. Forty-seven of the libraries have brought it.

Bourjaily, Vance: "Confessions Of A Misspent Youth." Thirty-three per cent have this book.

Caldwell, Erskine: "Jenny By Nature." Thirty per cent.

Wallace, Irving: "The Chapman Report." Thirty per cent.

Kerouac, Jack: "Doctor Sax." We have not purchased this one, nor do we have any requests.

Mayfield, Julian: "The Grand Parade." Twenty-seven have this book.

Peyrefitte, Roger: "Knights Of Malta." We don't have this one. Twenty-seven of the libraries do, however.

Peacock, Jere: "Valhalla." Twenty-four per cent.

Metalious, Grace: "Return To Peyton Place." We didn't buy this novel.

Robbins, Harold: "The Carpetbaggers." This is a new book. We have it through McNaughton Libraries.

Harvey, Frank: "The Lion Pit." This too is a new book that we have temporarily, through McNaughton Libraries.

KIDS AND KITES GO TOGETHER

Kids and kites go together and as the winds start to huff and puff a comic character is coming out of hibernation to help insure a safe kite season.

Yogi Bear and young Boo Boo, after a long winter's nap, are ready to cavort through the pages of a four-color comic Kite Fun Book, now available free at all Pacific Gas and Electric Company offices.

Yogi and Boo Boo show how kite making and flying can be as much fun as a whole hive full of honey and yet as safe as when the bees are gone. Actually PG&E calls on comic characters to carry a kite safety message to youngsters. Previous performers have included Huckleberry Hound, Donald Duck, Brer Rabbit, Bugs Bunny and others.

Together these comic characters have carried a serious warning to all children about kite flying dangers. In fact, Yogi gets growling mad when anybody breaks these safety rules:

NEVER fly a kite with metal in the frame or tail!

NEVER use tinsel string, wire or any twine that has metal in it!

NEVER fly a kite near electric power lines!

NEVER fly a kite over TV or radio aerials!

NEVER touch fallen electric wires!

NEVER pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a snagged kite!

NEVER fly a kite in the rain!

"I also have in my book several pages of puzzles and some plans for real exciting kites," says Yogi.

Mothers' March Collections Total $5,600

Approximately $5,600 is the amount collected by the 500 moms, dads and teenagers on Jan. 30 for the "Mothers' March of Dimes" on behalf of the National Foundation.

A note of sincere appreciation for the support of the National Foundation's expanded efforts to complete the conquest of poliomyelitis and lead the way to the prevention and relief of suffering from other crippling diseases was sent to all who helped make this possible.

A tea was given by Mrs. Edward S. Berry for all the area chairmen at her home on Thursday, Feb. 8, in appreciation of their help.

The Daly City-Colma City chairman was Mrs. Mendel Plansky, who is the president of Jefferson High School PTA and has been working with the "Mothers' March" for the past ten years.

Mrs. Berry who most ably assisted Mrs. Plansky is the Westlake chairman of the League of Women Voters and also conducted the drive at Fort Lewis, Wash., for two years and was a member of the executive board of the National Foundation in Pierce County.

VISTA MAR SCHOOL NEWS

"Kachina Day" in Mrs. Jane Cain's third grade at Vista Mar is being anticipated with a great deal of excitement.

This celebration is an annual affair as each group completes its study of the Pueblo Indians. Masks, rattles, and tom-toms are being constructed by children. Historical events and concepts consistent with the "Kachina Dance" are motivating factors in the unit's culmination.

In their previous background the children learned the Indian legend which relates that during the month of February, when rain was needed the tribe gave its "Kachina Dance." Wooden Kachina dolls were prepared prior to the dance and the men attired themselves in masks, beautiful jewelry, and they carry rattles.

The "Kachina celebration" will have as its audience, students of other grades in the school.

Vista Mar's San Smith, second grader in Mrs. Jeane Oberlander's class, has received a junior art champion award, and her drawing of "Sidney, the Koala Bear" was published in a San Francisco newspaper January 6, 1962. San as a result of her talent received a $2 prize.

San is most interested in art, and many of her drawings are frequently displayed in the office of the school as well as her classroom.

Work - School Course Slated In S.S.F. H.S

Next year, the South San Francisco High School busines department will feature a program of "distribution education," whereby qualifying students will be permitted to spend one-half of a school day attending regular classes, and the other half day working at a local business under the guidance of their instructor.

Neither the teachers nor the business firms have been lined up yet; however, it is definite that the program will be offered, according to Alfred Zubler, business department head.

Although a large number of commercial students find business jobs, Zubler added that the program will greatly expand the number of students who have found a place in the business world. Among last year's graduates now working in the field of business are:

Some of this year's high school business students working in business in local firms are:

Jackie Crotty, Good'n Rich dairy; Alice Tucker and Julie McNamara, Keystone Reading Service; Sandy Yahraes, Dr. Scholps; Lee Ann Ellis, Janet Bowman and Sue Schwarting, working for the city attorney of South San Francisco.

Zubler said students who are taking business courses at South San Francisco High School will be well prepared to continue in the fields of business in college, or to obtain employment with local business firms.

He points out that firms readily hire these students because they realize that the students are well trained. The difficult accounting courses required of all first year business majors in college is much easier for former South San Francisco graduates who have studied bookkeeping.

The courses offered are:

Bookkeeping, record keeping, secretarial training, business counseling, typing, business machines, shorthand and business English.

Westmoor High PTA Plans Rally Skit

PTA Founder's day program celebrating the Westmoor High PTA birthday and featuring "Student Rally Skit" with the stellar attraction of the high school dance band is set for the February 15 meeting at the Westmoor High School according to Mrs. Benjamin Pulsifer, unit president.

The Westmoor dance band will play several special selections — "Woodchoppers Ball" and a special arrangement of artistry and boogie by Stan Kenton. The bop girls will do a specialty act on the roaring 20's. The final act will be a trombone quartet and sax ensemble with vocalist Sharon Marshall.

The highlight of the evening will be the naming of a person for the annual honorary life membership award for duty and devotion "above and beyond" the normal expectation of PTA activity. The life membership committee members are: Mesdames Gene Sebastiani, Edward Perry, Thomas Colangelo, Herbert Quandt, and Walter Baker.

Mrs. Milam and Mrs. Quandt, co-chairman of the membership committee, will set up a table to sign up the remaining 13 parents required to reach the goal of 500 members, so if you have not as yet signed up, this will be a good opportunity to do so, help us to reach our "goal."

At the conclusion of the PTA program a hospitality period will be held in the school cafeteria for the parents, teachers and friends of the unit.

Adult School Bookeeping Course Taught

Learn the fundamentals of double entry bookkeeping at South San Francisco High School; how to prepare a work sheet and financial statements; how to keep records of your own personal finances.

This course is directed towards:

Adults now employed who require some specialized training in bookkeeping to better qualify for or gain advancement.

Adults formerly employed, who wish to retrain themselves in order to qualify for employment.

Adults who own a business and want an opportunity to learn more about the actual bookkeeping.

High school graduates who need to supplement their training before entering the business world.

Work books and practice sets are available for use with the textbook—giving the student ample practice in all operations of the bookkeeping cycle.

Former Imprisoned Missionary To Speak At St. Paul's Church

An eyewitness account of political and social conditions in Angola will be heard at St. Paul's Methodist Church of South San Francisco during the 9:30 a. m. Sunday worship service on Feb. 18.

The report will be given by the Rev. Malcolm McVeigh of Stanhope, N. J., who returned to the United States in July after four years of service in Angola as an agricultural missionary. He was there when rebellion started in March. He declared that in the first four months of strife Portuguese civilians and military "indiscriminately shot and killed" an estimated 30,000 African men, women and children, including 17 native Methodist ministers.

McVeigh is on a national tour in company with Fred Brancel of Wisconsin, a layman who is one of four American Methodist missionaries who were arrested by the Portuguese in September, taken secretly to Lisbon, and imprisoned for three months. Charged with having aided Angolan "terrorists," they were released late in November without being brought to trial.

Protest demonstrations in October and November before the Portuguese consulate in San Francisco by Bay area ministers, students and laymen, are credited with helping to bring pressure through diplomatic channels which resulted both in the freeing of the missionaries and the publishing of information about the plight of Angolan natives. The demonstrators claimed the true picture of conditions in Angola and the systematic decimation of native leadership there have largely been withheld from public news channels. They demanded sweeping reforms in Angola.

On the same evening, McVeigh and Brancel will present a symposium on Angola in the First Methodist Church of Oakland at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Robert Lundy will speak at the 11 a. m. worship service on Sunday, Feb. 18.

A coffee hour, courtesy of the Wesleyan Service Guild of St. Paul's Methodist Church, will be held in Fellowship Hall at 10:30 a. m. on Sunday, Feb. 18.

The second session of the pastor's church membership training class will be held at St. Paul's Methodist Church on Thursday, Feb. 15, at 7:30 p. m.

Mary's Guild Hosts Speaker

Saint Mary's Guild of Saint Martin's Episcopal Church was fortunate in securing as Feb. 7 guest speaker, Capt. William Pyles of the American International Travel Counselors.

The subject of his lecture was "the Bible as History." Capt. Pyles is well qualified to speak on this subject as he has not only spent many years living and touring in the Bible countries, but has made a thorough study of the historical and archeological facts which are found in the Bible.

With the aid of a map, Capt. Pyles traced the magnificent journey of Moses and his people out of Egypt and into the "promised land." Excellent films of the "holy land" and the familiar places of the Bible enhanced this entertaining and educational lecture.

Capt. Pyle has recently been personel pilot to King Hussien of Jordan and a stunt pilot for the Horizon Films production of "Lawrence of Arabia" which is yet to be released here.

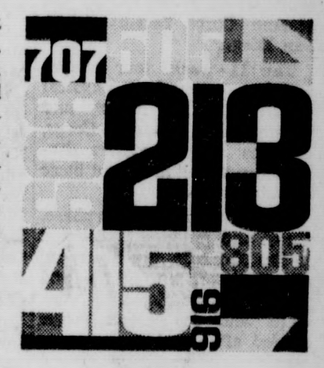
WHAT'S DOING

T. P. Coyne, your Telephone Manager in Daly City



People often ask me what are telephone area codes. Well, here's the answer. The country is divided into telephone areas—each has a different number called an "AREA CODE". This code is a vital part of your telephone number—it tells what part of the country you live in.

You don't have to use an area code if you're calling a telephone number located in the same code area as yours. But when you dial another area, it's necessary to dial that area code—then the rest of the number. Our operators too must dial area codes. If you place a call with the operator, giving her the area code first will help in putting your call through faster.

Another question I've been asked is why do so many men who work for the phone company wear glasses? Fact is, they may have perfect vision, and we want to keep it just that way.

The glasses telephone men wear on the job are individually fitted safety glasses. They look like ordinary ones, but they're specially made so they won't shatter.

Protective glasses may not seem like a very dramatic safety feature. But they can be every bit as important as a lineman's safety belt to the men who bring you telephone service.

Southern Hills Grading Job Is Toughest In Bay Area

Backfilling Of Foundations On Lower Level

One of the most difficult grading jobs in the Bay area is currently being undertaken at Southern Hills subdivision No. 3 in Daly Ciy, the site of 700 future homes.

Like flies climbing up a mountain of bananas, caterpillar tractors haul their cumbersome way up the steep slopes of the 116-acre tract.

The Southern Hills development is located just west of the Cow Palace at the northeast boundary of Daly City.

Grading contractor Buzz Haskins' men operate "cats" and carry-all scrapers, rubber-tired loaders and crawler loaders in the landscaping operation.

Due to the height of the terrain, underdrains are built into ravines and culverts in the hills to carry water away that comes naturally out of the rocks.

Chief Engineer E. V. Schulhauser for general contractor Standard Building Company, said this procedure is the secret which keeps embankments from slipping due to improper water drainage.

Engineer Schulhauser has supreme confidence in the ability of the tractor drivers to climb the slopes.

"Those boys get awfully good with their equipment," he commented.

"After a while they can handle themselves like an ice skater on ice skates."

High grading on the Southern Hills project got underway in December of 1961. The lower portions were cut sometimes through rock, with workmen using modern "Ripper Cats," that rip the rock out.

About 250 men work on the entire Southern Hills project, including subcontractors.

Construction of the 700 homes of Southern Hills development in Daly City should be completed in 1963. At a cost of some $24,000 for each home, the entire project will be worth, when completed, about $16,800,000.

HEALTH BENEFIT AID RULED OUT FOR JUDGES AND LEGISLATORS

Constitutional officers of the state of California are not eligible to receive the state $5 a month aid toward their health benefit plans during their present term of office, ruled Attorney General Stanley Mosk this week. Legislators also are not eligible.

The Meyers-Geddes state employees' Medical and Hospital Care Act of 1961 does not include the governor, lieutenant governor, controller, secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction and the state treasurer during their current term of office. Their salaries are fixed by the legislature. The Constitution provides that compensation of these officers shall not be increased or diminished during their term of office. The legislators' salaries are fixed by the Constitution.

Municipal court judges, not being paid out of funds controlled by the state are also ineligible under the rules of the board of administration of the State Employees Retirement System, states the opinion. Superior Court judges, however, may not be disqualified just because they are in a county plan.

Superior Court judges and attaches are considered county employees for limited purposes and their welfare fund charges are properly charged against the county.

Some counties pay all the cost of premiums and others pay a portion of premiums for health insurance. The Meyers-Geddes Act does not purport to exclude beneficiaries of a health program supported by other than state money.

The minimum age for applicants is 18; there is on maximum.

At the testing centers, each person will be given his choice between two types of placement tests, one for men and women who would like to be considered for positions as secondary-school or college teachers. The View From ..Behind The Badge

Written and Edited by Daly City Police Department

Little pieces of paper . . .

Let's take a walk through the Police Department office. We do not find here the weather-enduring, life-risking elements present in the patrol work on the city streets; we find here desks, 13 to be exact, 12 of which are being used at the moment. On these desks are little pieces of paper which pertain to the administration, investigation, and clerical work which is presently being accomplished.

As we walk through the offices, let's look on top of the desks. We will not peer into the desk drawers or into the files, but shall glance only at the cluttered desk tops. Be careful, as you walk, that you do not bruise yourself against the furniture, or that you do not collide with the many people who inhabit this four room, furniture crowded office maze.

Chief Petrocchi's desk top shows two signs. One queries the visitor: "Are you here with the solution, or are you part of the problem?" Another sign is a table of excuses as to why things aren't done, so familiar to any administrator. Also on the desk top is a confidential report from the Investigation Division, two surveys from the Traffic Division, and minutes from the last City Council meeting. Also present are communications from other city department heads, a rules and regulations book, a police yearbook. We observe personnel work surveys, various phone call notes, various police department floor plans, and the all important personnel records.

This desk belongs to Mrs. Runne, the chief's secretary. On the top we can see the morning mail, which amounts to some 60 pieces today. There are time sheets from the past twenty four hours, upon which the Sergeants have attested as to who was working, who was off, who was sick, and so forth, so that the personnel will be among those receiving remuneration on the next payday. We see several overtime claim slips from the policemen, and several bills from the hospital for performing sobriety tests upon suspected drunken drivers at the request of the beatmen. There is a business license investigation report and a report on one sick member.

Mrs. Runne's desk also sports one evaluation form, pertaining to a supervisor's report on one member's work performance. At first glance, it loks like a favorable report, but we really shouldn't read it. There is a bill from a car wash operation for performing upon the radio cars. There is a bill from a tow business for rendering emergency repair service one night; and there are several bills for meals for prisoners.

The Investigation Division also uses this office, and on Lieutenant Hansen's desk we can see the big register book inside which all Inspector's assignments are recorded, and in which the progress of the investigations is noted. We can see several progress reports awaiting approval and routing. We can see a half finished Behind the Badge column, and we see a cup of coffee. Don't touch it.

Sergeant Terry's desk shows a report of a robbery which occured the day before, upon which he is working There is an Alcoholic Beverage report, and there are two stolen car reports, and we also notice two or three missing person reports which the Sergeant will be giving his attention. We also notice a bowling score sheet, which is being used to keep notes on. There exist here several teletypes reporting robberies in other jurisdictions and that 4-finger-deep pile of papers represents the court liaison work that is handled by the Sergeant. That pile of 3x5 cards is about 150 field interrogation cards submitted by patrolmen which Terry will soon convert into pins on the appropriate map.

Inspector La Bruzzo's desk is likewise paper-cluttered. There are handwritten notes concerning morning phone calls to be made, and there are written reports to be followed up. That tall stack of papers are the bad check and forgery reports upon which he labors. These photos you see are mug shots of check suspects, and will be correlated with some of the case reports. There lays a file of a check case going to court today, and there lays a report of a brand new check case. These are fingerprint cards which La Bruzzo will be comparing with latent prints lifted in a theft case . . . and this is the file on an embezzlement case.

Inspector Murray peruses a search warrant which he served late last night. Also on this desk is the burglary file, on the top of which are reports concerning five arrests on three recent cases. Another burglary case lays there, awaiting the Inspector's attention. A package of cigarettes serves as a paperweight.

Let's go into the next office. Here sits Mrs. Mermon, tastefully attired in uniform and earphones. That machine on her desk is the recording device, into which the officers have spoken their reports. She listens, and types the reports onto the proper forms. This morning she has forty cases to type. Also on her desk, awaiting typing, is one letter and five tape recorded statements which have been elicited from suspects and witnesses. These are the monthly statistics upon which she will later work, and those are statistics and figures for both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the aClifornia Criminal Identification and Information office.

Captain Beecher dwells in this office. His desk displays that administrative bible, a copy of Municipal Police Administration. Here we find overtime slips awaiting his approval, and we can see a memorandum about to be issued. There we can see, but must not read, a copy of a vice condition report. There lay several brochures which dwell upon the subject of changes in the laws that have been made recently. That clipboard with the yellow papers contains the Daily Police Bulletins, which the Captain scrutinizes carefully daily.

Also in this office, Sergeant Sundermann works. His desk is adorned with notes concering an All Points Bulletin teletype which is about to be issued. Also, there lay here his order for a motorcycle man to check all local garages pertaining to possible repairs of a hit-run vehicle, which was involved in a fatality in a nearby city. There is a vacation list which he is working on, and there lay twelve Traffic Division Daily Activity reports which are awaiting his approval.

Judge: "Are you the defendant in this case?"

Suspect: "No, your honor, I've got a lawyer to do my defendin'. I'm the guy who stole the chickens."

Personnel Glimpse * * *

Sergeant Henry Sundermann completes twenty-one years with the Department this month. Henry, a native Daly City-ite, is second in seniority for the entire Department. For many years a motorcycle officer, he is presently assigned as Sergeant in charge of Traffic and Patrol on the First Platoon.

Officer Arthur Linhares completes fifteen years with the Department. Art is also a native of this city. He has done a stint with the Army Military Police in South America during World War II. Art performed for a time as warrant service officer with this Department, and is currently assigned to a radio car patrol section with the First Platoon.

DALY CITY AND COLMA Heart Sunday volunteers learn shocking facts. In Daly City, Colma and throughout San Mateo County, hundreds of Heart Sunday volunteers are learning the shocking facts about heart disease — how this number one killer accounts for more deaths than all other causes combined. Although the facts are grim, the volunteers learn from Dr. Marvin L. Auerback of San Mateo (above) that heart research is achieving new break-through every year. From left to right: Mrs. Lawrence J. Solari, Daly City Heart Sunday chairman; Dr. Auerback; Mrs. Robert Neff, Mrs. William P. Goszulak, Mrs. Bert E. Tischbern and Mrs. H. Friedman. DALY CITY PLAYERS ARE READY TO GO

After a brief hiatus, in which to re-group and to re-establish their goals and purposes, the Daly City Players are preparing to appear again on the local scene.

This group has, like all "Little Theater" groups across the country, been having a difficult time establishing itself. Some of the problems inherent in any organization of this nature have, at times, seemed insurmountable. Sufficient interested persons are not always available and sufficient funds are especially had to come by. A theater, or even the space in which to create one that the Players can consider their own, has yet to be found.

However, with the election of new officers and the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, recently, came a new desire to have this group take a leading place in the community and in the field of entertainment. This surge of ambition is reflected to a degree in the choice of their new production which will open on Saturday, Feb. 24, with further performances on following Saturdays, dependent upon audience demand.

In an attempt to break away from the rather traditional fare they have presented in the past, the Players have chosen to do three slightly off-beat one act plays, which are: Aria de Capo by Edna St. Vincent Milay; Trifles by Susan Glaspell, and Impromptu by Ted Mosel. These plays will be produced bare-stage with a minimum of props. The members of the cast and production staff, some of them new to Daly City audiences, have been gathered from Daly City, the Peninsula, and San Francisco.

This talented assemblage will present the three plays each Saturday evening at 8:30 p. m., beginning Feb. 24, in the Westmoor High School theater in Daly City. There will be no reserved seats, and the general admission price will be $1.50 per person. Tickets may be obtained at the theater on any performance night or ordered by mail for the Feb. 24 or March 3 performance.

To order by mail, send check or money order and a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Daly City Players, P. O. Box 3254, Daly City.

Air Squadron Explorer Scout Group Is Formed

A new subsidiary of the local boy scout explorer group which will specialize in the fields of aviation is now forming, according to assistant scout leader Claude J. Turner.

The new air squadron-explorer group is being created for boys who plan a future in aviation as a career, or a hobby. Interested boys may join regardless of whether or not they have had past scouting experience. Special ranks will be decided on and received by the special division similar to regular scouting. (third, second, first class, eagle scout).

The group has five adult advisers, who with the members, plan all group activities. The leaders are: Leonard Haynes, Jerry Hopper, William Lewis, Vincent Minnick, and Edwin McCune. Present activities include monthly field trips to aviation installations, movies on aviation, and lectures and counsultations with officials from major air lines. The aviation boys may also participate in other scouting activities such as hikes, and campouts.

Among the South San Francisco High School boys who have already joined are: Dennis Minnick, Bob McCune, Jim Lewis, John Meade, and Joey Hopper. Mr. Claude Turner says this is a "great opportunity for future airmen." Interested boys may get applications and full details during the semi-monthly meetings held at St. Pauls Church corner of Spruce and Miller. The group meets there on the first and third Wednesdays each month at 7:30 p.m.

Exchange Student At Westmoor High Program Is Rolling

"Internationally minded" Westmoor students recently gathered for the second meeting of the Westmoor High School chapter of the American Field Service.

Organized to aid in a foreign exchange student program at WHS, the club will work in cooperation with the community chapter of the AFS, under the chairmanship of the Rev. H. C. Tweedie. Faculty adviser of the Westmoor chapter is Paul A. Zimmerman, who says all efforts are being concentrated on getting a student from abroad to Westmoor by fall of 1962.

Elected to lead the newly-formed organization were Ed Raymond, president; Jim Fotenos, vice president, and Virginia Maches, secretary.

Main topic at the meeting was the imperative need of securing a family to house the student from abroad. Means of publicizing this search to qualified families were also considered. To qualify for this position, a family must have a child who is currently a sophomore or junior at Westmoor. Letters appealing for prospective "foster families" were sent out via students at the end of January.

Definite plans for publicity will be decided upon at the next meeting on Feb. 15.

Among the objectives of the club are to promote the welfare of the foreign student while he is attending Westmoor, support efforts to get a WHS junior abroad for the spring semester or summer of 1963, and to make the AFS program a continuous and expanding one at Westmoor.

In order to realize these objectives, a foster family must be located for our foreign student no later than March 1. By June the necessary funds, $750, must be raised and deposited in New York.

And, most important, it must be remembered that the ASF program is not solely a community program nor only a school program. It is the responsibility of both, for both school and community will benefit from it.

Building Activity Hums For Seattle World's Fair

Building activity at the Seattle World's Fair — 1962's "big show" in the western United States — is entering the home stretch.

"Construction has entered a 'crash' phase on the grounds," says Ewen C. Dingwall, vice president and general manager of America's first world's fair in more than 20 years.

"Many contractors have crews working 24 hours a day, seven days a week," Dingwall says, "and others are following suit day by day."

All over the world, Dingwall points out, "exhibit designers and builders are working to prefabricate the exhibits for the fair's domestic and international Commerce and Industry areas."

74-Acre Site

More than 75 buildings — only eight of which were on the 74-acre fair site before construction began — will house the World's Fair, ranging in size from the four-acre Washington State Coliseum and the six-acre United States Science Pavilion complex down to 3,000 to 4,000 square foot exhibitor buildings.

Meantime, Dingwall says that Harold Shaw, the fair's director of performing arts, is putting the finishing touches on the most extensive entertainment program ever scheduled in this nation for a six-month period.

In final stages of construction to house fair entertainment are the 3,100 seat World's Fair Opera House — soon to be one of the world's finest large theaters — and the 800-seat Playhouse. Other events will take place in the 5,500-seat arena and the 12,000-seat stadium.

Working 500 to 550 feet above the fair site, teams of plumbers, electricians and laborers are racing to complete the fair's mammoth showpiece, the Space Needle. A miracle of modern engineering, the Needle rose from the ground to its present 600 feet of height in some five and one-half months of steel erection.

Inventive Spirit

"No other thing on the fairgrounds," Dingwall says, "so well represents the inventive spirit that brought the Seattle World's Fair into being. This privately-financed tower is being built in record time to serve as the symbol of America's first space-age World's Fair, even though its construction called for many an engineering and construction miracle."

More than a month before the fair opens, Dingwall says, America's first high-speed, mass transit monorail system will be running from downtown Seattle to the fairgrounds and back.

"Many officials from cities in the urban West—and, indeed, from all over the world—will find the Alweg Monorail to be one of the most significant things on view at the fair," Dingwall says. "Here may be the answer to the public transportation problems plaguing the cities of the world."

As the grounds take shape, so do the means for taking care of the visitors to Seattle for the fair.

Expo-Lodging

The world's busiest room clerk is up to his ears in reservations for the Seattle World's Fair.

But he's fielding upward of 10,000 requests a week with rooms to spare.

The man with the keys to lodging for the World's Fair is Ralph L. Lee, vice president and general manager of Expo-Lodging Service, Seattle World's Fair.

"My biggest hope is that the reservations only have begun to arrive," says Lee.

With 10,000 requests a week to handle, you'd think he'd have his feet propped on the desk while he glories in the success story that is reflected in this interest in the Seattle World's Fair.

"Ten thousand requests a week are a lot," says Lee, "but they're not nearly enough if I expect to fill the quota of facilities I have to work with. We're expecting over 10-million attendance here, and I've still got lots of rooms to rent.

Reservations Made

"The Brussels World's Fair operated a very successful housing program and we've patterned our lodging plan after the Brussels setup, making further refinements to insure good service to the public. In addition, our reservation service is free, whereas Brussels had a service charge."

Lee said Expo-Lodging, the fair's official non-profit reservations agency, is providing a well-rounded program in all types of housing for the fair.

"We've only booked 5 per cent of the available space during the six-months' period of the fair. That means we've got over 100,000 room nights booked thus far."

Have rumors that Seattle is short of housing plagued the World's Fair yet? Lee was asked.

"Oh, sure. They crop up anytime you have an attraction as great as a world's fair. All of them are founded on improper information. People check a few major hotels in Seattle with long-time reputations, and if these hotels report they're booked on a given night or many given nights, the inquirer jumps to the conclusion there are no rooms.

"The hotels who were contacted early for reservations are co-operating in referring the public to Expo-Lodging Service. We've got many new hotels and motels here that the out-of-staters don't yet know about because they're so new. These facilities are most anxious to welcome the public.

Good Facilities

"My best defense to those perplexed by any shortage rumor is to tell them: Try me. I'll get you the facilities you're after."

Expo-Lodging has a wealth of rooms to accommodate fairgoers in hotels, motels, apartments, trailer parks, dormitories, at camping facilities, in private homes — just about any type of facilities.

"Why, our inquiries about private home facilities have been so surprisingly good," says Lee, "we've just launched a campaign among homeowners in six Seattle residential districts to come up with this type of facility to meet this type of demand."

For reservations, write Expo-Lodging, Seattle World's Fair, Seattle 9, Washington.

TWO FAIR FEATURES POSE TOGETHER — Two of the highlights of this year's Seattle World's Fair are seen together here: The 600-foot Space Needle looms through the concrete beamway of the Alweg Monorail System. The Space Needle — topped by a 40-foot natural gas torch — has a revolving restaurant and an observation deck on top. View port elevators traveling on the outside of the Needle's central core will give fairgoers a breathtaking thrill. The Monorail — the nation's first high speed, mass transit monorail system — will carry up to 10,000 persons per hour to and from the fairgrounds on two four-car trains, one straddling each of the two beams seen here. The trip to the downtown terminal of the Alweg Monorail in the heart of Seattle's business district is 1.2 miles — and, at speeds up to 70 miles per hour, will take about a minute and a half. The Seattle World's Fair opens a six-month run on April 21 of this year. As workers rush to completion such fair features as the Space Needle and the Monorail, all Seattle is getting ready for the rush of tourists expected to attend the fair. Among the busiest places in Seattle these days is the fair headquarters of Expo-Lodging Service, the agency set up to handle accommodations for the fair. People planning to attend the fair should write Expo-Lodging Service, Seattle World's Fair, Seattle, for reservations.

Wife Saved By A Spray Blast

A 50-year-old Daly City housewife got rid of a would-be assailant Feb. 6 by spraying furniture polish into his face and eyes after he forced his way in through her front door and grabbed her by the neck.

Mrs. Shirley Steigeraald, 50, 136 Northgate avenue, said she was working the foyer of her home with a spraying can when she noticed someone standing in the shadows outside her front door.

When she opened the door slightly, Mrs. Steigeraald reported a shabby man pushed open the door, shoved her backwards and grabbed her around the neck.

She was able to aim the furniture spray into the man's eyes. Mrs. Steigeraald said he turned around, ran out the front door and down the street. Because Mrs. Steigeraald is deaf, she could not report the attempted assault, which occurred at 1:30 p.m., until her husband returned home at 5:29, officers said.

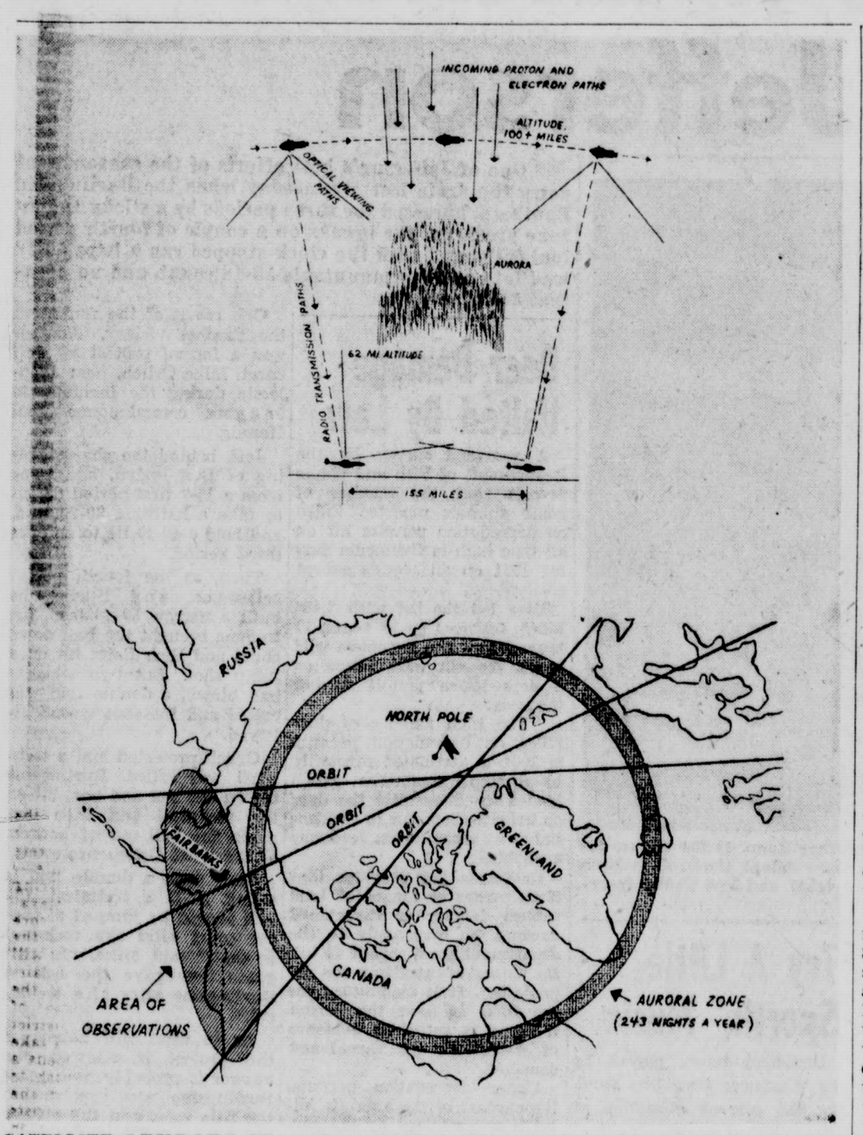
Central American Education

El Salvador, Tiny Central American Republic



SATELLITE STUDIES OF AURORA BOREALIS — Satellites, aircraft, and ground stations will be used in intensive Lockheed, Air Force, Navy, and University of Alaska studies of the Aurora Borealis (northern lights). Map at bottom shows area of observations near Fairbanks, Alaska. Observations will be made during three orbital passes around 90 minutes apart each night, as satellite passes over the auroral zone. Orbit paths are indicated in only a general way. Zone of auroras forms a circle around north magnetic pole, passes over Iceland, Tromso, Norway, and northern USSR. Upper diagram shows satellite (pointed backward in reentry position) at three points on typical orbit over auroral zone. Satellite borne proton and electron detectors and optical photometers will look down on the auroras from above and send radio signals to aircraft below to determine effects on signals of passing through auroras. Aircraft will also make optical observations, as will University of Alaska ground stations to correlate and confirm data. Aircraft make good receiving and observation stations because they can fly directly under satellite orbit, avoid cloud obstructions. Arrows at top show proton and electron paths. Particles descend toward earth directed by its magnetic field. Pattern of resulting ionization of atmosphere, it is thought, produces auroras. Lockheed Missiles & Space Company physicists designed and managed experiments, built instruments.

El Salvador, often mistakenly referred to as San Salvador, is the tiniest of the Central American Republics, yet it has the densest population of any American Republic. The 1950 census gives a population count of 1,855,917. The area of El Salvador is 7,722 square miles, which means that approximately 290 people live on each square mile of land. Over 60% of the area is under cultivation, with the major portion of agriculture being devoted to coffee, the chief export of this small nation.

Ninety percent of the population are of mixed Spanish-Indian ancestry, called "mestizos." The remaining portion consist of a variety of racial mixtures, including most of those common in the United States.

During the period the writer was in El Salvador, the country was under a military alert. The President had been removed from office and a cabinet of five military officers were in charge of government operations, pending a national election. Again, as was noticed in Guatemala, the air seemed to be charged with the insecurity that results from a government emergency or upheaval. Army guards were observed in all of the strategic positions in the capital. An interesting experience developed with an army barracade at the Honduras border, which will be related in the next column.

The writer spent an afternoon with the Mayor of San Salvador, (actually the Mayor serves more in the capacity of a National Governor), and the Director of the National Institutes of Education. Both were very cordial and very interested in portraying their country in a positive manner. The mayor was unable to speak English, but the Director of the National Education Institutes was able to communicate to a limited degree, in our language. Both were interested in the viewpoints of the writer, and the mayor placed his personal car at the writer's disposal so that he might visit the National Teacher Training College in an Salvador. This turned out to be a fine experience. One of the students at the college was a public school teacher from Los Angeles, who spends each summer studying at the college and advancing her knowledge of El Salvador.

Close by the capital, San Salvador, is the San Salvador Volcano which last erupted in 1919. The crater, about five miles in width, is now a national park and a main tourist attraction.

El Salvador was named by Sr. Pedro de Alvardo between 1523 and 1524, after his conquering the country for Spain. The name deriving from "Holy Savior." The Catholic Religion is a predominent feature of the culture of these people.

A visit with the staff of "Hoy Dario," (today's newspaper), located in San Salvador, was another enjoyable experience. The staff were extremely cordial and most hospitable. One of the reporters was from Honduras, another from Los Angeles. The latter, a retired newspaperman, who desired to live in El Salvador and contribute, through his writings, to the welfare of this tiny republic.

During the conferences held, it was mentioned several times, that adverse publicity had been given by a magazine writer in connection with the 14 wealthy families of El Salvador, which are supposed to have a tight grip on the national economy. Their point, well taken, being that condemnation was easy to come by, but that such condemnation was frequently inaccurate and frequently a false picture.

The writer heard, during his visit, many remarks concerning the 14 families. One of the members of the teacher group visited the home of one of these families and spoke with the grandchild of the head of the clan. The writer does not feel he is fully informed on this particular situation, to factually report it in any detail, or to repeat the statements made by individuals, that could not be verified. That these 14 families exist, and that they have a great deal of influence, certainly cannot be denied.

The rate of exchange is favorable to the tourist from the U.S.A. The black market is recommended for exchange rather than banks or hotels. (Again, for the purpose of clarity, the black market is not illegal for the exchange of monies).

There are many beautiful sights to be observed and enjoyed, and many quaint customs that will make each day long remembered for the tourist. The roads are excellent, completely paved, and while narrow in some areas, certainly not dangerously so.

"More Than Writing" Theme At Edison

Learning to spell, punctuate, structure sentences and form paragraphs is all part of a complex developmental process. But students at Thomas Edison are finding that written expression can be interesting and even exciting when combined with a variety of other classroom experiences.

Mrs. Toschi's first graders, for example, are composing and reading their own original stories about members of their families. But that's only part of it. The stories actually accompany a striking wall display featuring a forest of individual "family trees" painted by student artists and studded with photographs of parents, brothers, sisters and pets. Thus visually, verbally and in written form these first graders are learning how each member of the household helps and contributes to the others.

Further on in Mrs. Sherins' third-fourth grade the students are expanding their writing talents which are literally "growing" out of research reports on the agricultural products of California. The skills of reporting require ability to compile and organize information and apply this knowledge to other activities and displays concerning their state.

Miss Johnson's fifth graders have been more conscious of handwriting quality and originality of expression since they've embarked on "operation pen pal." This includes corresponding with a group of 5th graders living on an American Air Force base in Germany.

Girl Scouts Take Chinatown Tour

In January, Intermediate Troops 399, 2, 304 and their leaders, with Ching Wah Lee as guide, went on a tour of San Francisco's Chinatown. Among the interesting sights seen were the Buddha's Temple, the smallest shop in San Francisco, the herb shops, markets, the Chinese telephone exchange, which is no longer in use, and a priceless jade collection. The troops did some memento shopping, followed by lunch in one of Chinatown's many restaurants.

The trip was in conjunction with badge work the girls are completing for "International Friendship."

Founder's Day Observance Held By M. P. Brown PTA

"We shall always sing its praises, let 1st our melodies resound, for Margaret Pauline Brown!" So sang the children of the Margaret Pauline Brown School sixth grade as they introduced an especially written school song at the February meeting of the M. Pauline Brown PTA.

The presentation was part of the new unit's first Founder's Day observance, noting the inception of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers 65 years ago this month.

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Katherine Mullen, JESD board member, who presented a word picture of her late friend, Mrs. Brown. It was while Mrs. Mullen was still new to school board membership, 1954, that she and her associates voted to name a new school in Mrs. Brown's honor.

Giving reasons why such a tribute should be paid to the former educator, Mrs. Mullen cited the early life of Margaret Pauline McCullough, who was born in 1871 and came to Colma in 1886. In 1892 she married California legislator, Henry Ward (Honest) Brown. Their mutual love for Colma prompted the Browns to donate the site for the Colma Community Center. In 1914, Mrs. Brown founded the Colma Girl's Club and became active in the Red Cross and the AWVS.

After her husband's death in 1916, Mrs. Brown devoted her activities to educational pursuits; traveling, studying, teaching in public schools, tutoring and writing.

Concluding her part in the program Mrs. Buell presented a California Honorary Life Membership award to the Unit's gavel—wielder, Mrs. Kenneth Gillespie.

Given in recognition of outstanding service to children and youth, the funds derived from HLMs are allocated by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers for scholarships, fellowships and loans to college students.

Mrs. Gillespie served as secretary pro-tem during the recent organizational period of the M Pauline Brown PTA and was elected its charter president.

Serving as presiding officer of the James L. Snell PTA (now Garden Village) in 1958-59, she has also served the 17th District, CCPT, as publicity chairman, HLM committee member and is currently President's book chairman.

An ordained Deacon of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, she is a member of the Northern California Presbyterian Camp Conference committee and a member of the SF Inner City Church Guild, a past Church circle leader, choir mother, Women's Assn. chairman and Youth Camp counselor.

The recipient was born in Daly City, where her mother, Mrs. Lillian Fletcher, was charter president of the General Pershing PTA. The Gillespies have lived in Broadmoor since 1950.

How Come There Aren't More Brothers?

Sunday, Feb. 25, the gym of the Daly City War Memorial Building will be the scene not of a basketball game, for once, but of an event that is akin to the sportive life only in that its philosophy is probably the soundest of all for a competitor.

This event, scheduled to give the Arnica Set the night off, will be Daly City's third annual Brotherhood rally, climaxing National Brotherhood Week, Feb. 18-25.

Ordinarily these National Something Weeks don't move anybody to much emotion, and are usually just the result of somebody's successful promotion to push his product.

* * * *

IN CASE YOU HAVEN'T KEPT up with this fascinating subject, this year we've already suffered through National Sauerkraut and Frankfurter Week, Take Tea and See Week, Pencil Week, Irish Linen Week, and Peanut Week.

Rounding out last year was National Pickle Week, and this week, as everybody knows, is National Beauty Salon Week.

Any week that hasn't been commemorated by a National Something probably suffers from about the same degree of dementia praecox as an outfielder who in these days of 60 home-runs find that last year he only managed to muscle about 10 out of the park.

* * * *

BROTHERHOOD WEEK started a few years ago in the belief that by stressing the effort to get along with others during one unit out of 52, some of it might spill over into the rest of the year, and who knows, might even become permanent.

It was decided to call it Brotherhood Week, rather than Fellowship Week or Harmony Week or something thing, for the same reason that this other brother group, Big Brothers, picked the name brother.

They kind of figured that it's the brother relationship that's most meaningful among boys and men. That if a guy could feel the same sometimes with others as he feels toward the big brother or the kid brother, the whole thing would improve a bit.

Brotherhood Week was the idea of a Catholic priest back in 1934. It grew from the sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and that dates back to 1928. Twenty-eight, if you remember, was the year Al Smith got licked for the Presidency, and a lot of people got pretty disgusted during the campaign at the slime-slinging that went on among our leaders of piety.

So the NCCJ was formed, and a few years later the priest out in Denver suggests the idea of a Week, and it grew big until today we have our 29th observance.

* * * *

THIS SIBLING FEELING between brothers — the feeling that what happens to one, good or bad, happens to the other—is what coaches try to inculcate into their progeny. It's the attitude that can make a unit out of a gang of prima donnas.. It can provide an elan vital powerful enough to even violate a sacred math law — the total can be greater than the sum of its parts.

Today, almost from the day a kid is weaned he is shoved into some uniform advertising Irving's Meats or Herbert's Jewelry, and is told to compete, boy, compete.

Compete, in the filial jargon of today, means to win, kid, or else. End up on the top of the pile. Star. You don't make All-American at blocking halfback.

On this team the kid sitting on the bench grows to hate the first string. Rather than hoping the first string wins the game, he hopes they goof so he can get in the game. To be jealous of another's achievement is the most blatant sign of mediocrity. Who said that?

* * * *

NAH, I THINK THAT KIND of an attitude ruins the whole thing. After all, isn't it a game? The guy that starts with the basic premise of Brotherhood has it all over the others. Whether you're going it alone or as a team or as a country, the only way you get that real feeling of jubilation and excitement that is a part of this all is when you are simpatico with yourself, your teammates and your opposition. When you respect your bunch and respect the other bunch and can get that good feeling from sport that has nothing to do with how bad you prostrate the opposition.

I remember one time Thurber was talking and saying how we forgot what it's all about, and said that all the troubles between world governments could be resolved if the leaders would just get together some night in some bistro over a good bottle of brandy, maybe sing a couple of songs, and around one or two in the morning start working things out.

First Tilts On B. Franklin

In the first games of the Benjamin Franklin Recreation Basketball League, Craig Hughes, with 19 points, led his team to a substantial 45-21 victory over the opposition team led by Ed Kellett, high for his team with 12 points. For the victors, Don Giovanetti followed closely in the scoring column with 18 points.

In a second game Paul Andersen with 10 points and Dale Taylor with six, led their mates to 32-26 win over Pete Alba's team. Alba and teammate Steve Levensen were high for the losers with eight points each.

The recreation bowling league for seventh and eighth grade girls and boys will get off to a start at Westlake Bowl on Monday, February 19. Girls will bowl on Mondays and boys on Tuesdays.

Interested boys and girls can contact either Mr. Mendosa or Mr. Sammons at the playground.

Coaches who wish to use the baseball diamonds at Ben Franklin during hours of supervision can contact either of the playground directors at WY 2-1000, Ext. 301-302.

Rams Lose 3rd And 4th In A Row

Westmoor, though probably one of the best teams in the Peninsula League, just can't seem to win a ball game anymore. Last week the Rams went down to Capuchino on Wednesday, 50-49, and Hillsdale on Friday, 64-61, to record their third and fourth losses in a row.

And in each of these four losses it's been the same story—close all the way, but just not enough at the end. Against San Mateo and Mills, two weeks ago, the scores were 66-62 and 52-45, two losses by a total of 11 points. Added to the two close ones last week that made four losses in two weeks by a total of 15 points.

Wednesday in the Ram gym the Capuchino Mustangs had to go into overtime to beat the Rams, 50-49. It was a cliff-hanger all the way, and a game with an unusual twist.

In both the regular game and the overtime, a Ram went to the charity line after the buzzer had sounded and missed the foul shot—the first time to send the game into overtime, and the second to prevent a second overtime.

Ram center Gary Allard was fouled as regulation play ended, and with 0:00 on the clock was unable to capitalize on the shot that would have won it. During the three minute extra period that followed, Capuchino scored what was to be the only point of the period when a technical foul was called on a Ram and Terry Parks hit on the free throw to give Cap a 50-49 lead. The Mustangs maintained possession of the ball and went into a stall.

With 0:28 left, Ram Steve Schmuck stole the ball and the Rams immediately called time out. Coming back in with a set play, Westmoor got off a shot just as the buzz resounded and it was wide.

High point man for the Rams was Allard with 16, followed by Mike Daniels with 14 and Schmuck with 10.

Friday, against Hillsdale, a fourth period 16-12 bulge by the Knights gave them the victory, 64-61.

It was a game that rocked back and forth during four high-scoring periods, and featured a scoring duel between Knight John Stroscher and Ram Mike Daniels. Both hit for 23 points to strengthen their position among league scoring leaders.

This game again featured foul shots after the final buzzer, but this time it was Hillsdale that got the shots. Knight Don Laydig was fouled at the final buzzer and with his team leading, 62-61, canned both to provide the Knights with their 64-61 margin of victory, and the Rams with their fourth straight loss.

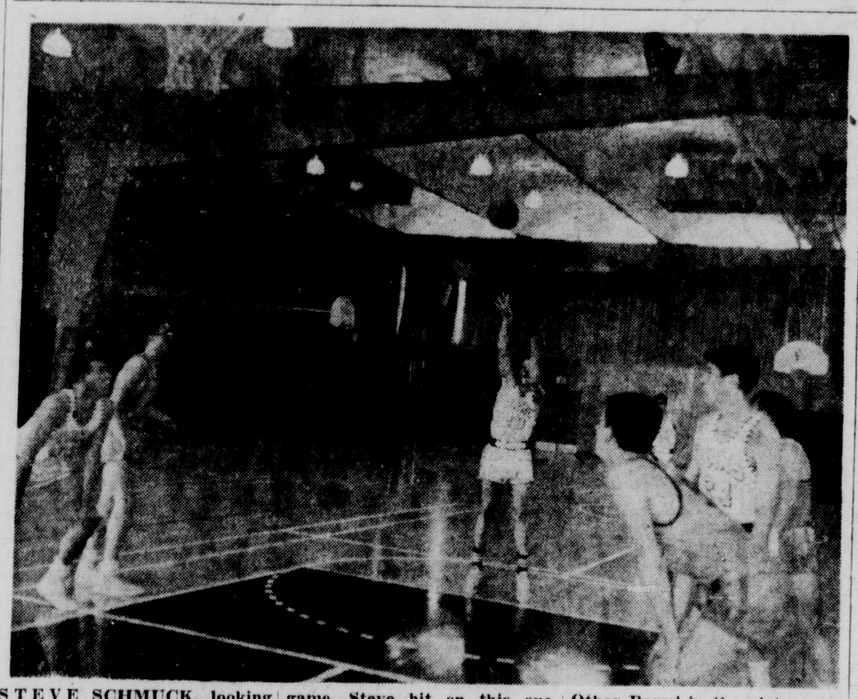
Too Many Whistles

Fouls, Panthers Lick Jefferson



STEVE SCHMUCK, looking like he's casting a spell, takes a free throw in last Wednesday's Westmoor-Capuchino game. Steve hit on this one, but it wasn't enough as the Rams' lost in overtime, 50-49. Other Rams' in the picture are Gary Allard (left), John Kelly (right) and Ted Tobby (rear).

One of Jefferson's best efforts of the season went down the drain last Wednesday when the Burlingame Panthers, harassed for three periods by a sticky Indian zone press, got the breaks on a couple of fourth period foul calls, and with the clock stopped ran a bare 50-48 lead into an insurmountable 53-48 count, and an eventual 55-48 victory.

One result of the fouls was the Panther victory. Another was a formal protest by Jeff coach Mike Orlich, near apoplectic during the incident, to league commissioner Paul Hennig.

Jeff, behind the sharpshooting of Don Boden, had come from a 15-7 first period deficit to take a halftime 30-29 lead, and hold a 40-40 tie to end the third period.

Then, as the fourth period rolled on, and Burlingame built a narrow 50-48 lead, the Indians brought the ball down court and Rich Reitz hit on a jump shot. But two whistles had blown, a double foul was called and the shot wasn't allowed.

Orlich protested and a technical was called. Burlingame hit on the one and one, hit on the technical and then was given the ball out of bounds. That's what Orlich protested.

"Any time a double foul is called AND a technical, the ball should be jumped at center court after the technical is shot," said Mike. "In that game they gave the ball to Burlingame after the technical."

As to what will happen if the protest is allowed, the answer is probably nothing. If Burlingame was involved in the title race, and the victory played a role, then the game might be replayed. Otherwise, not much will happen.

Friday the Indians took on the winless Terra Nova Tigers in the Westmoor gym, and rolled to an even 52-47 win. That's about as close as Terra Nova's gotten all year to a victory. Jefferson was hampered again by fouls, but this time they didn't prevent a victory. All of the starters had accumulated four fouls by the time the game ended.

High point man for the game was Terra Nova's Manuel Pick with 21. Reitz led the Indians with 16, followed by Don Boden and Darwin Haanen, each with 13 points.

This week both games are away — Wednesday at San Mateo and Friday at Aragon.

COSTLY DROP

In Green Bay, Wisconsin, reports the National Automobile Club, the law says that a motorist shall be fined five dollars for each drop of oil he allows to drip on the pavement.

Deer Damage Halted By Law

A year-end survey by the Department of Fish and Game reveals that the number of game animals reported killed on depredation permits hit an all time high in California during 1961 on all species except elk

Deer led the list with 2,484 killed, followed by 18 bears, 17 beavers and five European wild boars. No elk were taken on a depredation permit during the year.

The high number of deer killed on depredation permits in 1961 is attributed primarily to drought conditions which tended to concentrate the deer on irrigated lands or in residential areas where green feed was available.

California law provides that if an owner or tenant of land suffers damage or threatened damage, he may apply to the department for a permit to kill the animals committing the depredation. It is mandatory for the DFG to issue the permit if there is sufficient evidence of damage or threatened damage

Under depredation permits, the carcass of the animals killed is not retained by the permittee but must be given to some charitable organization.

In lieu of depredation permits, special depredation hunts for deer may be authorized by California Fish and Game Commission if it is determined that there is sufficient damage or threatened damage, and the minimum number of deer to be taken is 25 animals.

It's SPARE TIME

at Westlake Bowl

"Sweet Revenge" will be the theme of Thursday morning's A-1 Nursery return match games between the six ladies teams and the six men's teams. Ladies' secretary Pat Garcia has given men's secretary Ken Roemer the word to be prepared for a rough morning and early afternoon. Again sponsor Dorothy Moyle will be on hand to root for both groups and to present trophies to the winners at the buffet which will follow the bowling matches.

Dick Rentschler, currently King of the Hill in the Friday Jackpot Sweepers, missed a vacation in Las Vegas by one strike last week when he made six consecutive strikes in the Sweeper preceding the Jackpot Rolloff. Although he missed the vacation, he received $5 as a bonus for the string of six strikes.

There's still hope for beginner bowlers as evidenced by the latest figures of the American Bowling Congress which showed that twenty-five per cent of all league bowlers have an average between 150 and 159.

An extreme rarity in bowling circles took place in the 805 Scratch League last week when Fisher's Egg Noodles and DeFriese Blinds teams battled to not one, but two, tie games on scores of 785 and 868. Jack McNelly of the DeFriese team led the league for the evening with a 202 game and 568 series.

Arlene and Allen Steinberg were happy family leaders last week as Arlen was tops in the Tuesday Ladies League with 173 and 475 while Allen led the B'nai B'rith League with a 617 series on games of 213, 200, and 204.

Ralph Ostergren and Jim Marston teamed to take the $50 weekly prize in the current Westlake Handicap Doubles and also to move into first place. Their 1726 total was five better than the first week winners Jan and Dick Hayes who had posted a 1721 score. In the Optional Singles feature, a new leader was introduced as Larry Schultz took a few lessons from mother Alice and registered a 615 scratch series plus his 90 pin handicap, giving him a 705 total. Frank Hubert maintained his hold on second place with his 679 effort. With about three weeks remaining before the March 4, closing date, many reservations are being made by Bay Area bowlers for the weekend squads.

In the National Masters 900 Scratch League, Howie Espinosa took home all the marbles on a 674 series with terrific games of 246-192 and 236. Chuck Liebrenz set a new league high game mark with a 255 effort enroute to a 627 series. Other six hundred series in the league were posted by Sam Papia with 625, Hal Antrim with 615, and Chuck Fuller with 608.

A new leader took over in the current BPAA Team Handicap Tournament as the White Squadron team shot a 2693 scratch series with a 467 handicap for a 3160 total. New second place holders are the members of the Lewis Jewelers team with a 3089 total. One of each five teams competing in the Westlake Qualifying Round will receive a paid entry into the Sectional Roll-offs at Bel Mateo next May. This very attractive team tournament runs until March 4 at a cost of only three dollars per bowler.

Bonnie Birkett and Audrey Ruebenson were last week's Powder Puff winners. Bonnie took first place in the scratch division with 524 while June Tarczy took second place with 442. Audrey's 562 was high in the Handicap Division, beating Mary Wright by only three pins.

Fran Ayers in the Bowlerettes League had one of the big thrills in her life as she shot the high game of her career, a 188, although Jerry Johnson led the league for the day with 213 and 528.

Treasurer Dody Sanguinetti of the Morning Glories was a repeat leader as she again led the league with a 166 game and 481 series. Beverly Rifberg had just the right action on the ball as she converted the extremely difficult 6-7 split.

Many of the girls in the Early Quads offered to loan a pin to Barbara McKinney as she ended with a 499 total on games of 172-170-157. On the other side of the Bowl, Glennes Patane in the Holy Rollers League had a few pins to spare as she rolled games of 141-178-188 for a 507 series.

Bowling in the San Francisco State College Faculty Housewives League, Joyce Mackey bowled two games of 169 with a 121 in between to lead the group that bowls every Monday morning and is adding members each week.

Barbara McCreery and Judy Adkins were only two pins apart in the second YWCA League which also bowls on Tuesday mornings. Another first was registered by Virginia Daly in the A-1 Nursery League as she posted her first 200 game, right on the nose.

Try A Little Sportin' Music

Dixieland tunes, played by the Westmoor High Pep Band, are the current attraction at all basketball games played at Westmoor High School.

Composed of volunteers from all instrumental groups, the Pep Band played at the January 19 Jeff game and at the preceding rally. Fans were entertained by the Pep Girls and majorettes with such swinging numbers as "Ballin' the Jack" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

All proceeds of the benefit go toward a snow trip for 25 physically handicapped and 25 mentally retarded children living throughout the county. All facilities and trophies for the evening have been donated.
